Nashville International Announces Air Service Changes
Southwest Airlines and Delta Air Lines Make Schedule Changes and Frontier Airlines Takes Over Midwest Express Flights

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – Southwest Airlines and Delta Air Lines have notified Nashville International Airport (BNA) of flight adjustments to their schedules, and Frontier Airlines is now handling Midwest Express flights.

- Southwest Airlines announced the following seasonal changes to flights from Nashville, effective March 14, 2010, through May 7, 2010.

- Effective March 14, 2010, through May 7, 2010, Southwest will add one additional flight to each of the following markets:
 - Chicago Midway (MDW) – From seven flights to eight flights
 - Jacksonville (JAX) – From three flights to four flights
 - Tampa (TPA) – From four flights to five flights
- Starting March 14, 2010, through May 7, 2010, Southwest will reduce one flight to each of the following markets:
 - Ontario (ONT) – From one flight to no flights - Note that Southwest still offers service to this market via connecting flights.
 - Phoenix (PHX) – From three to two
- Effective March 14, 2010, through May 7, 2010, Southwest will add one Saturday flight each to the following markets:
 - Fort Lauderdale (FLL) – From two flights to three flights
 - Orlando (MCO) – From five flights to six flights

- Delta Air Lines notified BNA of the following schedule change.

- Effective earlier this month, service to Memphis International Airport (MEM) increased from three flights to four flights.

- Midwest Express flights are now being handled at the Frontier Airlines ticket counter. Midwest Express provides three nonstop daily flights to Milwaukee.

Nashville International Airport is served by 12 carriers. More than 375 average daily arriving and departing flights operate from 45 air carrier gates. Nashville International provides direct air service to 74 markets. For more information, visit www.flynashville.com.
